

Sentinel Group Australia has appointed Tim O'Neill as its new chief property officer

A leading investor has created a new role to lure an experienced senior executive who has worked with some of Australia's top property companies over three-plus decades.

Chris Herde

A PROPERTY executive with more than three decades in the industry has secured a newly created senior management position with a leading Queensland syndicator.

Sentinel Group Australia has appointed Tim O'Neill as its chief property officer.

Mr O'Neill's last role was executive director SEQ Developments at Economic Development Queensland and he has also held senior positions with QIC Real Estate and Lendlease.

Sentinel Group's new chief property officer
Tim O'Neill.

Sentinel executive chairman Warren Ebert said the appointment of Mr O'Neill was an exciting development for the Group.

"Tim has more than 35 years' experience in the property investment, development and construction sector and has worked with some of Australia's most successful property investment and development organisations," he said.

"We are thrilled to have someone with Tim's outstanding credentials join the Group and look forward to his contribution to Sentinel."

Mr O'Neill said he was delighted to have the opportunity to join Sentinel.

"I have been impressed by the spectacular growth of the Group since it was founded by Warren in 2010." he said.

"I very much look forward to contributing to the continuing growth and development of one of Australia's leading property syndicators."

As well as in business Mr O'Neill has also held positions on several property industry bodies including a two-year term as national director and Queensland president of the Property Council of Australia.

He holds a bachelor's degree in Building from the University of Technology Sydney and is a graduate of the Australian Institute of Company Directors.

Established in 2010, Brisbane-based Sentinel has a national portfolio of more than 50 retail, industrial, office, land, tourism infrastructure and agribusiness assets worth in excess of $1.17 billion.